WORK AT KIHAI

Launching Plantation to be One of the Largest Here.

ACREAGE IN FEE SIMPLE

Developing Water Successfully.
Railways—Landing and Wharf.
Town Growing Up.

With no fuss or noise, what will be
the second largest plantation on Maui,
is proceeding rapidly with its development.

B. F. Dillingham has an option to place part of the stock, but meanwhile the present owners, H. P. Baldwin and L. A. Thurston are not waiting for this feature to materialize, but are proceeding to develop the plantation without delay.

W. F. Pogue, late manager of the Haleakala Ranch, is the manager; C.
A. Long, bookkeeper of the ranch, has also been transferred to the plantation; "Jack" Dow, head luna at the Waikuku plantation, takes the same position at Kihai, with Edgar Morion,
late luna on the Waikapu plantation,
as chief assistant. Allan Clark, lately
in charge of the Government rock
crusher and steam drills at Honolulu
is the engineer. With this force at the head, under the personal supervision of H. P. Baldwin, and nearly 200
laborers, things are humming at Ki-
hai. Fifteen carpenters are putting up
buildings so fast that the settlement
has grown in three months from a
store house and a shanty to a village
of over twenty substantial buildings.

Herman Schussler, of the Spring Valley Water Works, San Francisco, has been engaged as hydraulic engineer,
and the water development is proceeding under his supervision. The water
is being secured from surface, dug
wells, lateral tunnels being run horizontally from the bottom of a thirty foot shaft. This is done with the assistance of a steam drill, although a battery of drills run by compressed air
is on the way from the coast, having been selected by Mr. Schussler.

The development of the water is proceeding rapidly, the increase during the last few days having been at the rate of about 50,000 gallons a day. Two temporary centrifugal pumps, capable
of pumping 5,000,000 gallons a day, for keeping the wells clear of water while work is in progress, are in use, and
four more have been ordered.

The permanent pumps are to be Worthingtons—two of a capacity of 6,000,000 gallons a day each are under contract to be delivered in working order in June next.

The planting of 100 acres of cane for seed to plant the main crop next summer is occupying the time of a number of men.

A set of steam plows has already arrived, and several miles of rails for permanent and portable track, and a
Baldwin locomotive have been ordered.
The plantation owns between eight
and nine thousand acres of good cane
land, all in fee simple, and will put in a crop of from a thousand to fifteen hundred acres next summer, while the following plant crop will be increased to 2,000 acres. The intention is to make the plantation produce from fifty
to twenty thousand tons of sugar per annum.

The mill and pumps will be situated
directly at the landing, which is one of the best in the country. The sea
bottom is smooth sand, gradually descending from the water's edge to a depth of 25 feet, 500 feet from the shore. There are no reefs or rocks in the water for a distance of half a mile,
while, being on the lee side
of the island and at the head
of Manaea Bay it is so sheltered as to give smooth water during almost all weather. A ship load of lumber has already been ordered for direct delivery, to be followed by one of coal.

The present wharf is about 150 feet
long and will soon be equipped with steam hoisting apparatus capable of lifting twelve tons at a load. Eventually the wharf will be extended to
deep water, giving the only deep water
wharf in the country outside of Honolulu, and allowing the shipment of sugar at a lower cost than from any other plantation.

Steps are being taken to effect the
early incorporation of the plantation.

Baseball.

A meeting of the Weia ka Hao baseball team was held yesterday and
Wm. Lucas was elected captain. Practice will begin Thursday afternoon.
There will be four teams in the league; the Punahou, Soper captain; Kamehameha College, Mahuka captain; Engineers, Handy captain; and the Weia ka Hao.

The fact that there are four teams
insures a good season for the lovers
of the game. The managers will meet in the near future and decide upon the schedule of games, which will begin
about the first of April.

THE MURDER OF JOE, THE MALAY

A Tragedy That Invites the Application of Best Detective Ability.

In almost every murder case there is
substance for a novel of exciting chapters. In the killing that was done at Kapukolo Saturday night there is material for a thrilling story with detail
to make the nerves tingle. The victim was not of much identity, but he was a faithful, harmless chap. Malice was not in him and he was a good man as a laborer at the Iron Works. Those who knew him express regard for him
and are sorry that he was ruthlessly slaughtered. Joe, the Malay, had the life knocked out of him evidently
without having a chance to defend himself and it is believed without having given serious offense.

Joe was a dark, strong, quiet fellow,
friendly with the Hawaiians and liked
by them. It is said he came to the islands from the south in a sailing ship. He worked a couple of years at Walanae and has been in town nearly a year. He is dead and no one knows
who killed him, nor can anyone guess
why. There are several theories on the manner of execution of the crime
and the reason for it, but none of them are at all tangible. Method and motive are densest puzzles.

Late Saturday night—after the saloons were closed and while the streets
were thronged with late wayfarers, a clean looking little Chinaman, a laundry employe, came into the police station with a frightened tale. He said
a dead man or one very drunk, blocked
entrance to sleeping room. Capt. Holl
went with the patrol wagon.

The place was in the second lane,
town side of King street bridge, on the lower line of the street, about eighty yards from Nuuanu aiguan.
There was the dead man, at the door,
as the Chinese boy had said. There were two pools of blood at the head.
One had a considerable amount of the fluid. In the other was not much.
Joe, the Malay, was at full length. The corpse was placed on a blanket, loaded
into the little wagon and taken to the police station.

Dr. Emerson came along soon to dress the head of a seaman, who had been seriously assaulted. This job
finished, the surgeon made an examination of Joe, the Malay. The wound
was an inch and a half long and open
like a crooked mouth and the skull had been penetrated to the brain. A finger
being inserted, clotted blood was brought forth. Dr. Emerson said that there had been a tremendous blow to make the effect.

On the right side of the face there
was an extensive but a light bruise,
with dust ground into the skin. There was grime on the right shoulder of the coat. There was still coming blood
from the nose.

Deputy Marshal Chillingworth, the
first chief officer to go into the case.

WAIALUA STOCK CASE.

Commission to Take Testimony
on the Coast.

Judge Perry has ordered that a commission issue to Edward Gray Stetson,
No. 509 California street, San Francisco, to take testimony of E. S. Valentine, R. P. Ritcher, Henry Francis and James E. Tucker in the case of John H. Soper and E. S. Valentine vs.
B. F. Dillingham and the Waialua
Agricultural Company.

F. M. Hata, attorney for defendants,
yesterday filed an amendment to the answer in the Waialua Agricultural Company case. There are two amendments. After the words "or either of them," the words "except J. B. Atherton"
these words are inserted:
"Said J. B. Atherton admits that on or about August 27, 1898, he heard that
said Dillingham had given to said Soper
an option to subscribe for or sell 10,000 shares in a company to be organized by himself for the purposes
aforesaid; but that said option was limited in time."

Watched Lycurgus.

At the time the transports were leaving yesterday afternoon several police officers were watching Geo. Ly-

curgus, the proprietor of Sans Souci resort. It was reported that he was going to take passage on the Ohio as a working passenger for Manila.

Mr. Lycurgus, when interviewed last evening, denied emphatically that he had any intention of leaving as rumored. He further stated that he owed no bills in town, that he felt free
to go if he wished. Mr. Lycurgus added that perhaps there might be some sort of a claim against him on account of an old lawsuit in which the California Wine Company was interested.

THE INQUEST.

The following coroner's jury was summoned in the case of Joe: C. B.
Malle, L. Kaimimoku, S. P. Konoa,
John Kuanaa and H. Kinney.

Dr. Emerson, upon being sworn stated that upon examination he had found
that deceased had not been dead very long. That death was caused by a long and deep wound in the head. The blow had evidently been a very powerful one, as the anterior flap had been burned over, and the skull penetrated.
The right side of the body showed evidence of possibly having been dragged.

Ah Wa, the next witness, upon being sworn, stated that when he had returned from the Chinese theatre, he had stumbled over the body of a man.
Thinking it was a drunk, he had summoned an officer. When they returned
they found the man to be dead.

Killona, police officer, was next sworn. Stated that he was the officer who returned with Ah Wa. He found the man to be dead, and after notifying
the department, removed the body.

D. A. Kenul, after being sworn, said that he had been an acquaintance of the dead man. That deceased had been drinking with some Japs and had been making much noise. Witness had gone
to bed at 10 o'clock and knew nothing further.

In view of the above evidence the
jury returned the following verdict:

That the said Joe, a Malay, came to his death at Honolulu, Island of Oahu,
on the 11th day of February, A. D.
1899, from an injury on his head, the result of a blow probably received from the hands of a person to this
jury unknown.

Bit Her Tongue.

A native woman, living in Manoa
valley, is in a very precarious condition as a result of having bitten her

DAY OF REAL WAR

Description of El Caney July 1st,
by a Man Who Saw It.

WHERE THE BULLETS STRUCK

Anxieties and Thrills—Action Hot
and Deadly—Pain of Waiting.
Spanish Retreat.

Lieut. William Wassel, commanding
M Company, Twenty-second Regulars,
aboard the transport Senator, was in
the thickest of the fray at El Caney, Cuba. He was at the head of his company until well along in the afternoon,
when he was shot through the shoulder
and face. He was carried to the rear
and after many weeks confinement in the hospital recovered. His wounds
have left one side of his face paralyzed.

Lieut. Wassel is a keen observer and has the faculty of describing events
well. While there has been much
said and written about the Cuban campaign, the story told by the Lieutenant
on the verandah of the Hawaiian hotel
to a coterie of local acquaintances, is well worth publication. He said:

"On the night of June 30th we bivouached along the roadside, about
two miles from the village of El Caney.
We were up and on the march before daylight the next morning. Along the narrow trails, across creeks, through
the deep grass we went to some place
—none but commanding officers knew where. At sunrise we had reached a sunken road running between El Caney
and Santiago. Here we were deployed as skirmishers. Then we plunged into a thicket, the like of which can not be found outside of Cuba. It is the same luxuriant vegetation that one finds
here, except that it is much more dense. In about a square yard of ordinary Cuban soil one can find every species of plant known to a tropical soil. Most of them are armed with briars, thorns and other scratching
projections. This was what we plunged into. After hacking our way for a few hundred yards we changed direction to
the right and headed for El Caney.

"Soon we caught scattering shots—
where they came from no one knew.
We could hear the ping-g-g of a bullet
and here and there a man was hit. But we were not in the fight—not yet. For fully an hour and a half we literally
cut our way through the vegetation; as we advanced the bullets began to come faster.

"For two hours we were under fire
before we dared fire a shot in return.
We were afraid of hitting some of our own people; in addition, we could see none of the enemy. But we could hear their bullets.

"At about 9 o'clock we struck open ground—the village of El Caney was in front of us. We, the second battalion of the Twenty-second, were on the extreme left of our lines—we were to intercept the Spaniards when they began to retreat. In the morning we were afraid we would not get there before they retreated.

"El Caney consists of a few scattering houses, surrounded by trees. South of the town—in fact all around it—
were block houses, trenches, wire
fences, anything to shelter a Spanish
rifle and check our advance.

"Our end of the line had the difficult task of remaining under fire without
advance—we were there to intercept the retreat. We were 400 yards from the hornet's nests of bullets and we stretched out on the open ground and
began a fight with men behind earthworks. The bullets were coming like hail, a bullet cut leaf would fall at one's side; a little cloud of dust would be thrown in one's face. Sometimes the leaves and the dust would be missed, then some poor fellow would look around in a wondering way while
a little stream of blood trickled down
his blue shirt.

"See a Spaniard? Not once all day.
Every few minutes we could see a row
or heads pop up from behind some part of their trenches, then came a flash
and the bullets whistled through us.
But it is hard work to hit a man when you see only his head and that for only a brief moment. But we got them.
That night their trenches were filled
with dead and wounded—most of them were shot in the head. But it was hot
work for us. The sun was scorching,
the ground burned us as we lay stretched out. The constant strain of watching for an enemy who was always firing but never visible was hardier than anything else. But through it all our men hugged the ground and never wasted a cartridge except when they caught an occasional glimpse of a straw-hatted Spaniard. There was no
excitement, no swearing, no moaning
from the wounded, no fear—it was
soldiering, good soldiering, soldiering
that will always be a credit to the army of the United States.

"At about 3:30 in the afternoon—and
it had been a long day—the troops on the right of the line charged the stone
fort. It was a good charge and worth a year of a man's life to have been in
it. We on the left heard the cheers.
You can—no, you cannot—imagine how we answered them. We forgot the sun
and we forgot the wounds. And soon

the long looked-for retreat began. We had waited all day to get a shot at a whole Spaniard. As we got sight of them our battalion—not more than 200
men—let loose on them and in almost
a moment nearly 200 dead and wounded
Spaniards lay on the road—among them their old general, who had made such a good fight. Some one hoisted
a white flag, the firing ceased. About two hundred uninjured surrendered to us. So ended the fight of the 1st of July. It was the fight of the war, and at the close of the day each side respected the fighting ability of the other.

"I don't know exactly how many men we lost, but in about twenty-two
officers we had one, the colonel, killed,
and six wounded.

"The Philippines? Well, if there is any fighting we will give a good account of ourselves."

An article on "The Growth of Religion among the Hawaiian People," by the Rev. Henry H. Parker, is one of the interesting features of Hawaii Net,

Judgment formed after a lifetime

careful observer like Rev. Mr. Parker,
makes this an article to be treasured.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Jules Fitcomb Accused of Killing
a Woman.

Some months ago, while Marshal
Brown was away to the coast, the death of a woman occurred on Kauai
and there was ugly talk about it. An inquest was held over the body, and
although there was thought to have been foul play, through the probable
ignorance of the jury, a verdict was brought in which completely excluded the idea of anything wrong.

Meanwhile the sentiment that there had been criminality grew up, and
was increased by a relative of the deceased who went from Maui to Kauai
on account of the death and who
affirmed that there had been foul play.

The matter was reported to Attorney General Smith and after the arrival of Marshal Brown the case was taken up. David Kaapa went to Kauai and evidence was secured which pointed
to a man by the name of Jules Fit-comb having had something to do with the affair. He and the woman lived together. Friends of the man were loath to tell all they knew, which made the gathering of evidence quite difficult. Sufficient was secured, however, on which to base an accusation by the marshal and the warrant was issued and the arrest made
last evening.

The arrested man is a member of the Fitcomb family of Kauai and is part Hawaiian. Two or three weeks ago he came to Honolulu and has been living out at Palama, where the arrest, which reflects much credit on
the Police Department, was made last evening.

MR. LANSING ENDORSED.

Theo. F. Lansing, the nominee of the American Union
party for the Senate, has been endorsed by the new Republican party. The following was handed to the Advertiser last evening for publication:

February 13, 1899. Committee Rooms of the Republican Party of Hawaii, Progress
Block, Resolved, by the Executive Committee, that the support of the party is pledged to
T. F. Lansing, in his candidacy
for the Senate on the American Union Party ticket.

Respectfully, COMMITTEE.

The Advertiser is informed
that had any man other than
Mr. Lansing received the nomination of the A. U. P., there would have been opposition. It was to have been the first Republican standard bearer.

Not Seriously Hurt.

Prince Cupid, wife and party returned by the Iwalei from Kauai this morning. The injuries he received were not as serious as first reported, the main trouble being an abscess of the liver, resultant from the bruises. It is not thought serious result will en-
sue. Dr. Herbert has been the attending physician.

The accident happened in a peculiar
way. When the horse stumbled the Prince fell, and in so falling managed to get right in the line of direction
with the horse's hoofs. As a result he was kicked three times exactly in the same place, before he managed to extricate himself from the crevice into which he had fallen. These kicks delivered in the manner described account for the severe injury in the one place.

A. U. P. NOMINEE

Theo. F. Lansing Named as the Candidate.

THERE WAS NO OPPOSITION

Came Before the Convention—Twenty-Four Delegates—Platform of Principles.

The nominating convention of the American Union Party was held in the Chamber of Commerce hall on Saturday evening. The session lasted less than an hour. Geo. W. Smith was in the chair and C. B. Gray was secretary. Theo. F. Lansing was the only man mentioned as a candidate of the party for the senatorial seat made vacant by the resignation of H. W. Schmidt. A ballot was taken and Mr. Lansing received twenty-two of the twenty-four votes cast. He was brought before the convention by Col. J. H. Fisher and Jas. A. Kennedy. In a few remarks clear and unequivocal, Mr. Lansing renewed his fealty to the platform of principles of the party, adopted September 15, 1897. He declared for constant effort to promote here that best and highest Americanism. Messrs. Kennedy, Col. J. H. Fisher and W. R. Sims made a committee to file the nomination with the Minister of Interior before 4 o'clock this afternoon. No other business than the selection of Mr. Lansing was transacted by the convention. It had been intended to have some resolutions, but they were not presented. Mr. Lansing's name was presented by Col. J. H. Fisher and seconded by Professor F. A. Hosmer. The nominee is a member of the Board of Health and of the firm of Gear, Lansing & Co. He has always taken an active interest in the annexation movement and every step for the advancement of the political and commercial interests of the Islands.

Following is the text of the Platform of Principles referred to above:

(1) We reaffirm that the foremost mission of the American Union Party shall continue to be unreserved effort to secure the Political Union of Hawaii with the United States of America, and heartily commend and approve the action of our Government so far as accomplished to this end.

(2) We commend the efficient, courageous and honorable conduct of affairs by the Government of the Republic of Hawaii.

(3) We are proud of the Government's practical and progressive policy of internal improvement. In witness we point to the recent completion of extensive public works, and to operations and projects of similar nature.

(4) We re-affirm our opposition to the employment of Asiatic labor upon any public works, or of prison labor in any mechanical pursuit. We believe the welfare of the Government and of the people would be advanced by the withdrawal of the more criminal classes of convicts from road work, the same to be employed on a penal farm in the development of many possible and varied agricultural interests.

(5) We recommend legislation prohibiting importation by the Government of material of any kind whatever.

(6) We demand a more speedy improvement of our harbors and wharves facilities to meet the requirements of our rapidly increasing commerce; the immediate acquirement by the government of all harbor front property throughout the Islands, and that such properties be at all times free of access to the public.

(7) We urge the adoption of an equitable graduated income tax system, to the end that certain existing petty and burdensome levy may cease.

(8) We advocate continuation of the Government's policy in promotion of the occupancy of public lands by small holders, and the encouragement of various industries.

(9) We pledge all the power and influence this party may possess to aggressive endeavor to further restrict Asiatic immigration.

(10) We are of the firm conviction that one of the first and highest duties of the American Union Party administration is to hasten to a realization the recently inaugurated effort to add to the population of these Islands by assisting the emigration of farmers, laborers and artisans from the United States of America.

(11) We especially commend the notable results attained and the intelligent efforts being put forth in the direction of extending and improving the public school system.

(12) We urge that the necessary steps be taken to carry out the plans for the proper sewerage of Honolulu.
(13) We urge the Government, to secure cable communication for the Islands.
(14) We declare our opposition to trusts and monopolies of all kinds.
(15) We recommend the establishment of a public park in Aala, and a legislative act making the Waikiki beach property, now owned by the Government, a part of Kapiolani Park, and that all of the said land be open for the use of the public.
(16) We cite the present peaceful and prosperous condition of the country as work of the American Union Party, and invite to join our ranks those citizens who have faith in a plain and progressive Government of equality.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY ALWAYS PROVES EFFECTUAL.

There are no better medicines on the market than Chamberlain's. We have used the Cough Remedy when all others failed, and in every instance it proved effectual. Almost daily we hear the virtues of Chamberlain's remedies extolled by those who have used them. BOMB GUN HURT

Serious Accident to Mate of Whaler Gayhead.

SECURED RELIEF ON HAWAII

Brought to Honolulu—Was Firing at Big Game—Catch of Vessel this Year.

Saturday morning, while firing a bomb gun at a whale, the first mate of the bark "Gayhead" was severely injured in the left hand by reason of the bursting of the old, brass firearm.

The boat was four miles from the vessel, the latter being fourteen miles from Kealahou Bay, South Kona, Hawaii, having presence of mind to use a tourquet, Mr. H. C. Tower—the mate—reached his ship in a weak, but hopeful condition.

Saturday night was spent on "Gayhead." Sunday morning a boat crew took the wounded man to the nearest coast point—Papa—but as no help could be obtained from the isolated hamlet, a re-embarkation was made and Hoopuloa landing reached in the afternoon, from which place a journey was made overland to Hookena, arriving there at 9 a. m. Monday. The telephone was put in use, meanwhile J. K. White, of the Kona Trading Co., looking after the sufferer.

As the skipper of the whaler had armed his mate with a letter of introduction to the "Government Agent," "Karakakoa Bay," and the only person answering at all to the description being Harry T. Mills, this Kona man went to Hookena and soon as possible Dr. Allen was summoned and did the surgical work peculiar to the wound.

As the Deputy Sheriff did not offer to help in any way, Messrs. White and Mills took the stranger to the Mills' home and next day he was placed at the Rodney House, Kealahou, from which place he sailed per "Mauna Loa" for Honolulu where he is well known to old residents having visited the Island several times in the last forty years. His family lives in San Francisco.

Three whales have been secured by the "Gayhead" since her departure from the coast on Dec. 31, 1898.

This is the letter which was borne by the mate:

Whaling B. K. "Gayhead,"
Off Kealahou Bay,
February 5th, 1898.

To the Government Agent, Kealahou Bay:

Dear Sir:—My mate, Mr. Horace Tower, the bearer of this, having been disabled by the explosion of a bomb gun, is in urgent need of prompt surgical attendance and I am compelled to hand him immediately.

I am not aware whether it is necessary to enter at Karakakoa Bay or not, if it is and there are any charges to be paid, please notify me at Honolulu whether I will arrive as soon as possible.

I cannot land myself as I am the only remaining navigating officer. If it is necessary to enter here and the one entry will suffice for here and Honolulu, please notify me and make it out that way by return of my boat.

Yours respectfully,
CHAS. H. POLEY,
Master B. K. "Gayhead."

PRINCESS KAULANI.

Young Lady Returns to Ainaahu Still a Sufferer.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Princess Kaulani and party returned from Hawaii on the Mauna Loa yesterday afternoon. The Princess, while much improved, was far from being well. It was necessary to carry her on a litter from Mana to Kawaiahae, where the Mauna Loa called for the party.

Kaulani is suffering with inflammatory rheumatism. At one time it attacked her left side and it was feared that the heart might be affected. At present the suffering is confined to the left side of her head and her left forearm. The Princess is now resting at Ainaahu, her Waikiki home. The attending physician, Dr. Wolters, looks for a speedy recovery.

The personnel of the Princess' party included Mrs. J. H. Boyd, Mrs. J. W. Robertson, Miss Helen Parker, Miss K. Vida, Sam'l. Parker, Gov. A. S. Clegborn, David Kawanakoa and Dr. Wolters.

THE SUGAR BEET.

"Willie & Co., the sugar brokers of New York, made the following remarks in their last circular:

"The domestic beet-sugar industry of the United States shows some very unusual features, which are quite surprising when considered from some points of view. The result of the campaign in tone is below last year, but the gain in factories built and proposed is quite important. The object of a few well-managed factories paying 30 per cent dividends to stockholders and dividing $200,000 among farmers near by, as in Utah, is having a wonderful effect upon both capitalists and farmers in neighboring states and territories, and the year 1899 bids fair to see much greater activity and advance in this industry, regardless of any objection or fear from without. The industry itself is expected to be strong enough in its position to take care of itself against all opposition, politically or otherwise, by the time that any important action may be required. Certainly the progress made this year is phenomenal and unexpected generally, not as to sugar produced, but as to factories built and contemplated, and as to progress made by farmers in experimental work. We shall continue to give the details of new enterprises as fast as they reach us, but, as heretofore, shall avoid publishing mere rumors without authentic information.

"The sugar beet production may not be for some time an important factor in fixing the price of sugar. At the same time if that industry is finally made successful on a large scale in the mainland, it will seriously affect the sugar interests here. Some are disposed to ignore the matter. But it must not be forgotten that the chief industry of the United States is agriculture, and that skill in the cultivation of the soil is increasing with marvelous rapidity. The facts show that the farmers are gradually becoming convinced that the beet crop may be made more profitable than any general crop. What is needed especially, in order to make a success of it, is correct practical knowledge of the matter of cultivation. The time has almost passed when the farmer worked blindly in developing a new industry. He may now, before making any efforts in new directions, obtain the most reliable data from the great scientific corps that is supported by the Federal Government, and furnish the farmer with practical results, not theories.

"So far as our own sugar interests are concerned, the important fact seems to be established that the sugar-beet industry has come to stay, even far east of the Rocky mountains, and if it has come to stay, it will grow.

SUICIDE IN THE STATES.

Rev. J. A. Cruzan, now pastor of the Foreign Church at Hilo, Hawaii, once delivered a lecture in Berkeley, Cal., on the subject of suicide in the United States.

He stated that one person in 13,500 in England; one in 2,700 in France; one in 1,500 in the United States committed suicide. His belief was that the appalling frequency of this crime in the States was due to high pressure in living, and that the crime would increase unless the people struck a slower gait.

What is the difficulty? The struggle for existence in the United States is slight in comparison with the struggle in Europe. The resources of the American continent have hardly been scratched. Land, which is the desire and hope of all in Europe, is cheap in the States. The Government has been for fifty years utterly prodigal in giving a home to every one who wanted one. The price of food is cheaper than it is in Europe. Education is free. Democracy rules. There is no caste. There are no artificial social distinctions. There are no commercial restrictions in trade between the forty-five great States. The political orators tell us on every occasion that America is the land of the free and the home of the brave. The religious teachers tell us that it is the land of Christian homes. It is the paradise of the poor of all other lands.

In spite of all this, a most alarming number of people become tired of life and dash themselves into eternity. Unrest, unhappiness, prevails all classes alike. The "quiet home" ceases to be an institution. The good people listen reverently every Sunday to the preacher's exhortation to put their treasures in Heaven, but spend the rest of the week in putting their treasures on earth. Even with the most intelligent Christian communities, wealth commands the highest consideration, while character and philanthropy are regarded as excellent things to talk about, and are recommended to the careful consideration of neighbors, and the heathen.

Much of this abnormal distress in such a rich country as the United States, is due to the unbalanced system of education. The inevitable result of education is the creation of "wants." And there is no corresponding education in the "supply of wants." Young men and young women are turned loose upon the world without special training in any of the supply producing arts. The "wants" make the standard of expenditure. Education stops there. The thirsty travelers stand on the brink of a deep well of water, but cannot make a bucket and rope to reach it.

Then comes weariness, and despair, and finally suicide in such alarming numbers. What is a "Paradise" to an educated European, who immigrates to the United States, is simply "Hell" to the native born.

American civilization gradually builds on better lines, but the bricks laid by the present generation are cemented with distress and suffering. The education of the brain and hand will lay the higher stories in bricks made with straws of sounder education.

THE ORGANIC LAW.

There has been little expectation in Washington, since the meeting of Congress that any organic law for the government of Hawaii would be passed during the short session. The draft of the law reported by the commissioners contained provisions and adopted principles of government that were novel, and had never been applied to any of the Territories. The provision for a property qualification, especially, was contrary to all precedent, however wise it may be. Even the fact that this qualification was incorporated in the Hawaiian constitution, by those who established it, and, moreover, was demanded by the American Union party without dissent has no especial weight with Congressmen. No one could expect that any radical measure would meet with any quick response from Congress, because Congress, after all, represents the thought of the people, and the people could not make up the mind in haste about such a measure. This conservatism of the people was and is quite sufficient to prevent action on the organic law for Hawaii during the short session.

Aside from this aspect of the case, the question of dealing with distant and newly acquired territory, on entirely new lines, has suddenly confronted Congress. Whatever Congress may learn out of books on the subject, it has had no experience in dealing with the mixed inhabitants of tropical countries. What experience it has had in attempting to apply the principles of self government to races other than American or European, has been decidedly unfortunate. The negro was made a citizen, but the power to qualify him as a voter was turned over with certain constitutional limitations to the States in which he resided, and these States have largely disqualified him, and have done so, within their constitutional powers.

Before attempting to deal again with races, unfamiliar with our political institutions, Congress is evidently determined to guard against the errors that have been made.

Any legislation for Hawaii involves the declaration of some principles. Although the Commissioners, who drafted the Hawaiian law declare, in their report, that their proposed law should not be made a precedent, it would, if passed, be regarded as one.

The disposition was manifested early in the session of acting with extreme caution, and the more troublesome the questions are, when directly faced, the stronger has been the disposition to make haste slowly.

Those who desire to "protect" the sugar interests of the Mainland are actively opposing the passage of the organic act. They count on the support of the Republican party in Congress, because that party is the champion of the American laboring man, and is committed to the doctrine of "protecting him," by tariffs or in any other way that will secure to him high wages. It requires more than ordinary patriotism and party loyalty to support a party which is committed to the idea of raising the wages of laborers within the national boundaries, and may feel it a solemn duty to check the great prosperity of these Islands, in the interests of American laborers.

THE NOMINATION.

The nomination of Mr. T. F. Lansing to the office of Senator is an excellent one. Mr. Lansing knows the country and the people. He is a good citizen and that means that he ought to be a good representative. He has made an excellent record as a member of the Board of Health. While he has endorsed the last platform of the American Union party, that contained a "heartfelt" tribute to the present government, and opposes Asiatic immigration with trumpet tones, he doubtless feels that it is only the repetition of an elastic political ritual, which unscrupulous moralists should not expose. At any rate he ought to make an excellent Senator.

A LAYMAN IN THE SENATE.

Senator Platt of New York, layman and President of the United States express company, shows his practical wisdom in dealing with the new territorial questions, to the disadvantage of Senator Hoar, his superior as a lawyer and scholar. While Senator Hoar confines his strong arguments to the exposition of the constitution, and the limitations it contains, Senator Platt treats the matter as a practical affair. In his recent speech in the Senate, he acknowledges the forces of the constitutional provisions, but he says substantially, "we must not presume that the founders of the Federal government intended to tie us down, without any regard to new conditions that might arise. They did not cut us off from using the wisdom of the hour in any emergencies, although one should seemingly depart from our recognized principles; the fathers did not foresee the vast growth of the nation, and did not provide for the new duties and obligations that arise from it; the nation does not propose to make any aggressions in the Philippines, but does propose to prevent revolution and anarchy until order can be maintained; this involves trouble, but it also involves obligations.

There was not the least evidence of Jingoism in Senator Platt's speech. The habitual conservatism of lawyers, exhibited in Senator Hoar's masterly speech, is offset by the practical wisdom of the layman who coolly looks to the wisdom of the hour, and see clearly that it is not so much expansion as an emergency that is before Congress.

THE REPUBLICANS AND THE FRANCHISE.

The report from the Committee on Territories submitted to the House on January 23rd, recommends the retention in the Hawaiian Territorial law of a property qualification of those who shall be entitled to vote for Senators of the Territorial legislature. The majority report is made by Republicans. The minority report is signed by four Democrats, and it is opposed to any restriction of the franchise.

Those living here who favor an unlimited franchise should at once provide for a Democratic organization, that will work in harmony with these democratic views. There is the flavor of party disloyalty in the opposition of a Republican journal, as Mr. Sewall's organ declares itself to be, to the policy of the Republican leaders in Congress in restricting the franchise, while it supports the policy of the Democrats in Congress, which is directly the opposite. Probably Mr. Sewall's explanation is that like the Mugwump Senator Hoar, he feels justified when the Republican party, in his opinion, goes wrong, in jumping promptly into the Mugwump boat and pulling an opposition oar. He is quite right. But to quote his favorite style of denunciation, it is "un-American," whatever that means.

EMBALED BEEF.

A composition of salicylic acid and borax will preserve meats for a considerable period of time. The manufacture of this article is now a large industry in the States. It is sold as "Preservaline." For some years the fishermen of Cape Cod have used it in the place of ice for preserving fresh fish daily sent to the western market. No complaint has been made against it. For many years it has been used by the wholesale dealers in oysters who dissolve it in the barrels containing freshly opened oysters. It has been extensively used for many years by milkmen in the preservation of milk, although its use is prohibited by law. It has been used for the preservation of meat on these Islands, in past years, but has, for some reason been discarded. A piece of meat wrapped up in a cloth saturated with this preservative, and kept moist, will retain its sweetness for many days without injuring the quality of the meat. It is said that it is used by the German army. Some years ago, under the name of "Rex Magnus," it was advertised at an enormous expense by a stock company, but housekeepers and servants were afraid of it, and it never came into general domestic use. The preserving qualities of this article are simply in the exclusion of oxygen from the article that is to be preserved. A surface washing of the meat generally removes any taste of the acid. Innumerable experiments have been made in cooking beef-steaks, some of which were fresh from the butchers' shops, and others kept in the preservaline for weeks in hot weather. Experts have not been able to detect any difference in the quality or taste of the meats. While physicians and chemists have not regarded this composition with favor, it is admitted that it is not distinctly injurious because, in the case of meats it is readily removed by washing.

It is probable that the "embalmed beef," denounced by Gen. Miles, and which is the cause of his controversy with Gen. Eagan, had been preserved by this article. As it was difficult, if not impossible, to provide sufficient refrigerating space, for the beef supply of the army in Cuba, it is probable that this article has been used by the beef contractors. The plan of furnishing fresh beef from Chicago to an army in Cuba, over two thousand miles distant, was experimental. Even if kept in good condition on transports, there have been no facilities for keeping the beef in good condition, after it was taken from the transports, and exposed to tropical heat.

The use of the word "embalmed" is unfortunate. It created a prejudice against meat so preserved. Some years ago, the British government, in order to enlarge the ration of the soldiers in India, added the best Chicago canned corned beef, of which millions of cans are used by seamen, miners, and private families. "Tommy Atkins," the British soldier refused to eat it, and charged the government with a conspiracy to injure his health. Only by adroit management was the soldier finally persuaded to use it. Prejudices regarding food are violent.

Gen. Eagan was probably not aware of the use of preservaline in protecting the beef supplied to the army. While Gen. Miles may correctly call it "embalmed beef," it is by no means certain that this preparation of beef may not be the only practical way of feeding the troops in the tropics with fresh meat, unless it can be obtained from the country adjacent to the camps.

A NOTED WOMAN.

Mrs. Adele Cutts Williams, wife of Adj.-Gen. Robert Williams, U. S. A., retired, died in Washington a few weeks ago. She was the daughter of James Madison Cutts, who was Comptroller of the Treasury before the civil war, and was an acknowledged beauty and belle when she met Stephen A. Douglas at a White House reception. Their marriage followed, and Mrs. Douglas accompanied her husband on his famous campaign tour. After the death of Mr. Douglas she rarely appeared in the social life of Washington, where she had formerly been so prominent. Later she married Gen. Williams.

This lady was for some years a conspicuous figure in the political society of Washington city. Next to "Dolly" Madison, noted for her beauty and tact, she wielded a strong influence over prominent men. She was persuasive, fascinating, and singularly well informed in movements, and her suggestions were of much value to political leaders. In the memorable campaign in Illinois between Mr. Douglas, known as the "Little Giant," and Mr. Lincoln, she became a power in securing friends for her husband. If a selection was made of the names of women who have exercised a strong political influence in Washington, her name would be in the list.

THE PASSING HOUR.

Brig.-Gen. Harry C. Egbert, objects to being called a one-lunger, even if he did go out on one strike through his breathing machinery.

The Chinese can continue to explode their faces against clothing without fear of the hand of the law getting into their mouths.

That Senatorial contest in California must be of deepest interest. It has more space in the San Francisco papers than murders or suicides.

Hilo's papers wonder why the Oregon did not remain at that place. Probably at the distance from the deck the watch officer failed to see the town.

The Oregon, en route to eastern waters in the interest of the Open Door, is keeping open house at Honolulu and the hospitality of the officers is much appreciated.

Some feeling is growing out of the proposal of Manager Cassidy of the Telephone to have less steam whistling and less idle questioning. A compromise is advised.

Cooking classes have been discontinued in the San Francisco public schools. This was not compelled by the health authorities, but was forced from lack of school funds.

The American commissioners to the Philippines have gone by the northern route. If they fail to call at Honolulu on their return they will have failed to make the most of their chances.

The strenuous efforts to preserve the W. C. T. U. temple at Chicago as a distinct monument to Frances E. Willard is a fine example of tenacity and strength of purpose backed by sentiment almost entirely.

The "boys" appear to be doing politics on the toboggan slide. The Republican Club of yesterday is the Republican Party of today. It seems that importance is attached to the idea of being first in the field.

That no one was injured when the light pole fell at the corner of Richards and Beretania was probably be-

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by experienced pharmacists of today, who have brought to the production of this great medicine the best results of medical research. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a modern medicine, containing just those vegetable ingredients which were seemingly intended by Nature herself for the alleviation of human ills. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach and digestive organs and creates an appetite; it absolutely cures all scrofula eruptions, boils, pimples, sores, salt rheum, and every form of skin disease; cures liver complaint, kidney troubles, strengthens and builds up the nervous system. It entirely overcomes that tired feeling, giving strength and energy in place of weakness and languor. It wards off malaria, typhoid fever, and by purifying the blood it keeps the whole system healthy.

cause it was Sunday. It is learned that the Government plant has quite a number of practically rotten electric light poles in service. Some good citizens might loan the fund enough to make repairs.

It may be vouched to "Maui" that Hilo will "kick" to the end of time, but to "kick" harmoniously is too much. This would mean concession to the views of others and quite likely protest that would be reasonable and well grounded.

In the case of the brutal murder of Joe, the Malay, there is a chance for members of the police department to distinguish themselves. The noose welcomes the men of the class capable of such a crime as doing to death a harmless, inoffensive chap.

The soldiers like Honolulu even without the big dinners and the serenades and the formal attention of the ladies. The warriors bold are given pretty well the run of the town and on the whole their behavior is excellent.

In all this controversy about the quality of the army beef it is strange that the contractors are so completely in the background. Yet another strange thing is that there has been no hint of any questioning the provisions supplied the navy.

It is becoming evident that there has been planted here seed that will in time grow into some such manifestation as a showing of resources by means of an exposition. A permanent display with Mr. C. L. Wight's coffee samples as a nucleus would prove attractive and useful.

Every Saturday night here now is, for crowds, about like the nights in the old days of June 11, July 4, the birthday of the King or Regatta Day. But there is wickedness in the Saturday nights now. They are almost fast and loose as the nights were sometimes in the whaling era. A man who liked to look at this sort of thing could not tear himself away from it Saturday night of the 11th inst. There was that bad thing of Joe, the Malay. But there were pleasanter things in the earlier hours. Happy crowds filled the Orpheum and the Tent show. There were a number of social gatherings. Trade was brisk in the stores till 9 or thereabouts. Abroad were driving parties, riding parties and wheeling parties. Out also were the window gazers. A good many of the stores make metropolitan displays now. The latest photographic sensation—Davey's revival of the silhouette, responsive to the advent of the fad in the East, was a drawing card. The likenesses of known people were readily recognized and there will be a demand for the souvenirs. There was a merry assemblage at the club of the officers of the N. G. H. The Hawaiian hotel was a center. The A. U. P. convention was held down town to play politics. Cabs rushed to Waikiki to get people there in a hurry and rushed back to get more people. The quarter of the peculiar local half world was lively. The police were alert as ever, but slightly indulgent towards the soldiers and the bluejackets, who were on the streets by the hundreds. The saloons were jangling out disturbances and the disturbers demonstrated on the sidewalks and on the streets. Then there was the fag end of the Chinese New Year, with a few firecrackers and a lot of that freak liquor they make themselves and that would make a white man steal his own clothes and get drunk again to find them. Saturday night music is vile. The singing is crazy and the instruments are abused. Broken heads? Of minor cases scores. Of serious affairs, always a few. There was Anderson, the Willisot carpenter. He had three ugly marks on his poll. He thought variously that he was hit by a Spaniard, a soldier, or the wife of the late cook of the ship. There was Newcomb, beaten by Kaula, the bad man of Twile. Why, there were even dog fights, abetted and encouraged. The Saturday night is getting tough. The Salvation Army slumping and Hawaiians in holiday pastimes, go to make the wind-up of the week picturesque. A Chinese restaurant owner, half drunk, disputed with a customer. Fourteen other customers ran away without paying. A bus came along more than suspiciously late with a load that hummed hula tunes and those who saw the outfit could have sworn that some army officers were in the passenger list. Saturday night is wild and has variety and action.

MAUI IS IN LINE

Wants Hilo to Get Into the Band Wagon Right.

Cabinet Ministers Should Visit Island Sections—An Instance of Good Results.

The recent visit of Minister Cooper to Kula, followed by the prompt announcement of intent to proceed with the expenditure of the road appropriations for the district, illustrates the necessity for Cabinet Ministers familiarizing themselves with the country districts by personal visits.

The Legislature appropriated the money; the need was urgent; there is plenty of money in the treasury; nothing was done. Why? Because the Minister of the Interior, in whose department the appropriation is located, is content to try and run his department from his office in Honolulu. The Minister of Finance keeps the road worn between the Executive Building, Bishop's bank and Moanalu, and nurses a big treasury balance; but the country districts know him to be a good looking man only by his photograph.

As long as we have a centralized form of government we are entitled to have the executive heads know what the conditions are in the several districts. Instead of the Minister of the Interior spending his time in Honolulu he should spend a large portion of it on the move, personally inspecting roads, wharves, public buildings, present and prospective, and, as the other Ministers also control the disposition of public funds they should act on personal knowledge.

What, Ho! Ye Hilo Kickers, and all the other public spirited citizens of the country districts. Maui proposes to you that instead of frittering away our good energies on separate kicks about individual lacks and needs, we join in a unanimous kick, and insist that the executive officers of the Government spend more of their time in visiting the outer districts.

Searchlight.

The powerful searchlight of the Oregon was turned on last night cleaving the darkness on every hand. Strolling couples are extremely chary of the searchlight, as it makes night too much like day.

HOW TO TEACH

Close Study of Methods by Hilo Instructors.

PLAY ACTING AS A FEATURE

It is illustrated—Importance of Drawing—Primary Numbers,
Soils of Hawaii.

An interesting, instructive and largely attended session of the Hilo Teachers' Union was held in the Union school at 9 a. m. on Friday, 3rd February.

Mr. W. Ray, president, occupied the chair. The opening exercises consisted of prayer by Rev. J. A. Cruzan and a chorus by the Junior pupils of the Hilo Select school.

The minutes of the December meeting were read and approved. May 12th is the date fixed for next meeting. The program will be arranged by Mrs. Smith, Miss Deyo and Mrs. Deacon. Miss Deyo conveyed a request from Mr. Abbot, of Lahainaluna, for Hawaiian legends for publication in Hawaii's Young People.

A talk on drawing was given by Miss Hart, the instructor in that subject in the Hilo Select school. She had on exhibition quite a large display of charcoal work from all the grades. These Miss Hart criticized.

Drawing throughout the grades should be the same, only easier for junior pupils, more finish being required as advance is made. All her work is entirely from nature. The materials required are ordinary yellow drawing paper and charcoal. Where possible adapt work in nature drawing to the seasons. Make drawings tell the truth and with as few lines as possible. Attention should be given to the position on the paper. Shadow may be had by dropping curtains on all sides of the room but one. Guard against making lines too heavy. Have pupils produce their ideas of historic and literary scenes. Quick execution insures greater satisfaction. Old things look best in drawings. Copies of work from great artists should be hung in the room.

Mrs. Kelsey illustrated her method of teaching primary numbers. Objects should be manipulated coincidentally with the first operations and should not be discarded until multiplication and division are thoroughly understood.

The work along the line of agriculture at the Hilo Boarding School was explained by Mr. L. C. Lyman. For books of reference he recommends Professor Maxwell's Lava Soils of Hawaii, Winslow's Principles of Agriculture, How Crops Grow, and How Crops Feed. A knowledge of elementary chemistry is necessary. Valuable information is gained by experimentation in the field, by portioning off plots for different plants and fertilizers. At present he is experimenting on leguminous plants as fertilizers for supplying nitrogen. Such plants absorb nitrogen from the air and give it to the soil when turned under, which state it is available for other plants requiring nitrogen. He also gave results of experiments on the germination of seeds under different conditions of temperature, moisture and light.

Miss Nellie Wise recited "Heaven is Not Reached by a Single Bound." The teaching of Hawaiian geography was talked about by Miss Lyman. She explained her method of introducing a class to the study of Maui after having a fair knowledge of their own island. Read from the map the markings. The meaning of these has already been learned from the map of Hawaii. Find out from pupils all the information they already possess about the different places. Give historic facts and legends connected with these. Those who have made a trip on the Kinau can give its location relatively to the other islands.

Miss Deyo read a paper on school devices designed to bring out the dramatic element in the child's nature. She asked the teachers to recall how they, when children personated grown up folk, and how real the play was. That which appeals strongest to his imagination is the thing the child will act most naturally, hence in the kindergarten motion songs about birds, animals, the trades, ringing of bells, etc. Such secure interest in the subject and expression through their bodies although their tongues may have little command of English. Any device which brings the image more vividly before the mind is helpful to the child first and secondly to the teacher, as it enables him to get at the child's conception. In history dry facts often disgust the child, but if he can "put himself in the place of" an individual a permanent friendship will at once be established. Teachers should not be after show work to entertain, but what the child sees and feels with his mental faculties. A single feather stuck in his cap and an imaginary bow and arrow in his hand may fill a small boy's mind with visions of Indians and will for the moment make him one. Older pupils can make up conversations in history or literature. Results must not be measured by spectacular effect but by the light of interest shown in the eye and attitude of the pupil.

As illustration of the work Miss Deyo had a number of pupils act:

- (1) The Story of the Three Bears, by first year children.
- (2) Robinson Crusoe Shooting Goats by second year children.
- (3) The Monkey and the Cat, by fourth year children.
- (4) Wm. Penn and his Friends Tearing off the Gown of a Student, by sixth year children.

Mr. C. Smith concluded the day's work with a talk on weather observations. The amount of vapor in the atmosphere may be estimated from a thermometer with a piece of wet cotton tied around the bulb. Evaporation will lower the temperature of the mercury by carrying off heat. The difference between the reading of this thermometer and one wholly exposed will indicate the dryness or humidity. A rain gauge may be constructed by collecting the rain and measuring it into a vessel one-fourth the diameter of the receiver. Every one-sixth of an inch in such a measure represents one one-hundredth of an inch rainfall. The principles of the barometer and thermometer were also explained. Sunshine may be measured very simply by placing on the bottom of a box a sheet of silver paper and having a hole in the center of the lid through which the sun's rays may pass and strike the paper, making a dark line along the course of the ray of light. When cloudy no mark will be made.

HE HAD TO GO ON

Gen. Egbert Wanted to Have His Station Here.

IS NEEDED OUT IN MANILA

Twenty-Second Likes Honolulu.
How a Brave Officer was Wounded—A Westerner.

"When the War Department asked me if I felt well enough to take the command of the Twenty-second Infantry, I replied that I did," said Brigadier General Harry G. Egbert, on board the transport Senator yesterday.

"Almost in the same breath I requested the Department to station the Regiment in Honolulu, but I was informed that we had to go to the Philippines. They told me that only a battalion of troops would be stationed in Honolulu for the present. As I understood it, these troops were to be in addition to the battalion of Engineers now in camp here. This would station over one thousand officers and men here.

"Not only myself, but the entire Regiment, it seems, is disappointed in not being able to remain here. We have been pretty well over the city during our brief stop-over and are perfectly charmed with what we have seen. The majority of us had no idea that Honolulu was so Americanized."

"How long will you be in the Philippines?" "We were given to understand that we go for a service lasting two or three years. After the first few months of our real occupancy, I look for barracks to be built in the uplands. When this has been accomplished I do not anticipate much sickness among the American troops. In my opinion we cannot live along the coast and hope to thrive."

"The invasion of the mountains by Americans will mean the development of the Philippines. It is known that minerals, both gold and copper, are hidden there, but the Spaniard or native has never had the ambition or knowledge to go after them. Coal can be found in great abundance and there are the trees growing there. If America holds the Philippines, they will develop into one of the richest spots on that portion of the globe."

Gen. Egbert is one of the fighting generals in the army. When he entered the Cuban campaign he was Lieutenant Colonel of the Sixth Infantry. His division was the first ordered to attack the block house on San Juan hill. While the brave Sixth regulars, led by Egbert, forded the river, within one-half mile of the Spanish rifles, the remainder of Kent's command was passing on and forming for an attack nearly one mile from the block house. When within 300 yards of the block house, Gen. Egbert was struck by a Mauser bullet. The ball entered the left side, passing through the lung and making its exit in the back. The General was carried to the rear. He never saw the top of San Juan ridge. In answer to a question about his wound, Gen. Egbert said: "I feel very fine for a man who had sunlight shining through him. I have no constant pain, but am experiencing a growing pain. My doctor wants me to take care of myself and not to contract a cold. I have never taken care of myself and I am afraid I am too old to begin now."

Gen. Egbert has seen considerable frontier service. His campaigns among the Indians are full of interest. The General was in command of Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, at the time that the Wyoming cattlemen were confined in the barracks as prisoners. These cattlemen were large owners of live stock in Wyoming. They attempted to put a stop to the stealing of their cattle by forming an invasion party and killing the perpetrators. They were surrounded in Northern Wyoming by several hundred of the rustlers and their sympathizers and would undoubtedly have all been killed were it not for the timely arrival of Government troops from Fort McKinney.

Moves to Quash.
Ed Aldrich has moved to quash the indictment brought against him by the Republic of Hawaii, containing a charge of felony. Among other reasons for moving to quash, Aldrich claims that the indictment is invalid in law for the reason that the same charges a felony and is not the presentment of a grand jury as required by the constitution of the United States.

While on his recent trip about the island of Hawaii, Professor Koebke made some investigation of the work of the cane borer at Onomea plantation. There is nothing serious threatened.

The United States collier Scindia came in the harbor yesterday afternoon, anchoring alongside the Philadelphia, which she will coal. It has now about been decided that the Scindia will return to San Francisco from this port and not continue her trip to Manila as at first proposed.

This change is caused by leaky boilers, which have given the officers of that steamer considerable trouble on the voyage so far and one of the engineer's crew is said to have been severely burned by escaping steam from a bursted steam pipe on Sunday last.

The Iris moored at Pacific Mail wharf at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, where she is repairing and coaling. She will take on an additional 2100 tons of coal, so as to take the place of the Scindia and supply the battleship Oregon on the way to Manila.

The United States supply ship Celtic is not looked for from San Francisco until some time next week. Her non-appearance when the Oregon and Iris are prepared for sea will not delay those vessels, which will then provision here and go on alone, and the Celtic will follow them upon her arrival in this port.

The schooner La Ninfa was chartered yesterday to assist the Hackfeld scows in coaling the Oregon.

The officers of the Iris are: T. E. D. Witt Veeder, Lieutenant commanding; Lieutenant William E. Safford, executive officer; Lieut. Louis S. Van Duzen, late of the Iowa, temporarily assigned for duty on the Iris, navigator; watch officers, Lieut. A. L. Norton and Ensigns James J. Ruby, A. T. Chester and E. H. Watson; engineers: Chief engineer, W. N. Little; passed assistant engineer, L. D. Miner; assistant engineers, Newton Mansfield and H. O. Biset, and naval cadets E. T. Constable and J. A. Schofield; assistant paymaster, A. B. Pierce, and assistant surgeon, D. H. Morgan and 93 in the crew.

The United States collier Scindia is offered as follows: Commander E. W. Watson, commanding; Lieut. J. M. Orchard, executive officer; Ensign F. H. Schofield, navigator; watch officers: Ensigns T. T. Craven, J. H. Roys and H. C. Mustin; acting chief engineer, J. H. Rowen; assistant paymaster, C. W. Penrose.

Pahala Old-Timer Had a Most Remarkable Memory.
The late T. L. Wills, of Pahala, Hawaii, was well known to many of the old residents of Honolulu. Though not a seafaring man, Mr. Wills came to these islands many years ago, when he was quite young. He first lived on Maui, where he engaged in farming. Afterwards he came to Honolulu and was connected with the police department for several years.

Mr. David Dayton of this city knew him intimately at that time. He was a man of culture. He read much. Mr. Dayton, in conversation, said that Mr. Wills possessed to a greater degree than any other man he had ever met the power to recall events, names and dates. Though he had never been in America, Mr. Wills could at will recall every battle of the civil war, the results of each battle and the names of the commanders. He could give the names of all the English rulers and their families from the time of the crusade down, the exact dates so far as known of the great events of English history and in all things where recollection played a part Mr. Wills was accurate.

Mr. Wills returned to Maui and engaged in the cultivation of coffee. He held a number of positions under the Government and was much respected for his strength of character and sturdy honesty.

Mr. T. L. Wills was 79 years of age at the time of his death at the home of Mr. L. C. Wills, of Pahala, Hawaii. Mr. L. C. Wills was a son-in-law and nephew of the deceased. Another daughter is the wife of J. J. Williams, the photographer. C. Wills, a son, is now in the police department in this city.

Although no official information could be obtained it is believed the police department is in the possession of a clue which might lead to much. Much difficulty is experienced in getting a word from Japanese living in the neighborhood in which the crime was committed.

OUR REPUTATION

For fine watch work is widespread; but we wish to impress the few who may not get it in line, with the necessity of sending their watches, when out of order to us directly; and not first allow every linker to ruin the watch, after which, send it to us for proper repairs.

The Cost is always more to you, after such treatment; ever so much better to send it right down to us, for we allow nothing but perfect work to leave our workshop.

You will be surprised, too, how much cheaper it will be, and how much more satisfactory to you.

Watches are securely packed in wooden boxes, and returned in the safest possible manner.

TALKS ON TAXES

Debate at Paia Church. To Tackle Expansion.

CHINESE AND CANE KNIVES

Bloody Fight—Capture of a Youthful Burglar—Plan to Purchase a Social Hall.

MAUI, Feb. 11, 1899.—Last evening, the 16th, a large number of ladies, not to mention the gentlemen, were present to encourage the speakers at the regular monthly meeting of the Makawao Debating Society, held as is customary, in the Paia foreign church. The subject of debate was "Resolved: That the present personal tax of these islands is too high."

Messrs. D. C. Lindsay and W. E. Shaw spoke in the affirmative and Messrs. C. H. Dickey and John Fleming argued on the negative side. The negative side won the favor of the audience by a vote of 15 to 6. The subject for next debate has to do with imperialism. "Resolved: That all possessions (excepting Cuba) acquired by the United States during the last war should be retained."

Wednesday, the 8th, at Spreckelsville, two Chinese laborers got into a dispute and after many very personal remarks attacked each other with cane knives. Injuries inflicted were slight. The aggressor, Chan Kin, is held by the Wailuku police authorities on a charge of assault and battery.

At 11 o'clock p. m. on the 8th, a burglar but 16 years of age, named Pele, was caught in the store of A. J. Rodriguez of Wailuku by a policeman stationed on the premises. Deputy Sheriff Scott suspecting the native boy, had arranged to have an officer inside the building. The policeman saw Pele effect an entrance into the store and arrested him, he was making his way toward the money-drawer. Pele confesses his evil doings, but Judge McKay has not yet decided on punishment—the youth being too old to send to the Reformatory.

Chinese New Year is being most quietly celebrated on Maui.

A subscription paper is being circulated among Makawao and Spreckelsville residents for the purpose of raising money to buy Paia hall (situated near Paia depot) for the purpose of fitting it up and keeping it permanently as a place for literary, theatrical, and other entertainments. A thousand dollars asked for, in 200 shares at $5 each—$500 will purchase the building and land, and $500 will put the hall into proper condition. The project originated several years ago, but at that time was unsuccessful.

To-night the 11th, Miss Kanehuna Kapu, sister of Rev. S. Kapu of Wailuku, will be married to Mr. Mokihana, a well-known Hawaiian, in the Wailuku native church. Rev. S. Kapu will perform the ceremony.

"The Winsor," formerly "Hotel de Maui," has been full of tourists during the week. This institution, the only hotel in Wailuku, is ably managed by Mrs. Robertson, the wife of Attorney G. B. Robertson.

On the 7th, the schooner "Jennie Ward," Christiansen master, departed from Kahului for San Francisco with a cargo of Hailu, Pala and H. C. Co.'s sugar.

On the 9th, the four masted schooner "Defender," Hellingsen master, arrived in Kahului with a cargo of machinery, pipe, etc., for Spreckelsville.

To-day, the 11th, the bark "Nunau," Josselyn master, departed for New York via Cape Horn, having on board 2,748,400 lbs. of H. C. Co., Hailu Sugar Co., Pala plantation and Wailuku Sugar Co.'s sugar, in addition to 500 sacks she brought from Honolulu.

Weather:—An abundance of rain in Wailuku, Spreckelsville, Uluapalua and other places, but very dry throughout Makawao district.

NOT TURNED TURTLE.

A reliable citizen of Kohala writes to the Advertiser:

"On December 22nd, Thursday, about 6:30 or 6:45 a. m. I was on high land above Nuhi and near Pololu Gulch and looking out to sea I saw a vessel about three and a half miles from shore on Hilo side of Awaui, her bow facing Hilo, bare masts standing, but listed or canted to port at an angle of 45 degrees or more; went on down to breakfast and reported to manager there was a vessel out there that looked in pilikia, returned to high land later on, but vessel had drifted around the headland and was lost to view, and must soon after have been cast on the rocks, as there was a strong north wind blowing and sea was rising."

This contradicts the statements that this vessel was bottomed up; further proof of this is that when she struck, the sea was listed her to starboard and her masts were touching the cliff, and that is how the natives first got aboard."

It is added that the Nomad has been stripped by local wreckers.

GREAT RAILWAY DEAL.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—The sale of the Chicago and Alton Railway to the Harriman-Mitchell syndicate, which represents the Vanderbilt interests, is virtually effected. The deal has an important bearing on the Vanderbilt great coast-to-coast project, as when they take possession of the Alton they will have a direct line from New York City to Ogden, Utah, and the Western terminus of their great system will be less than 1000 miles from San Francisco.

STAMPS FOR COLLECTORS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The Post-office Department has placed on sale at all the first-class Postoffices in the country all the left-over newspaper and periodical postage stamps whose use was discontinued on July 1st. There are 50,000 sets of these waiting philatelists. These sets of twelve stamps each will be kept on sale at $5 a set for private uses until December 31st next.

MILES ON BEEF

Tells of Embalmed and Canned Article.

Statements Based on Thirty Reports—Has Affidavits—Chemicals Used—Some Results

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—General Nelson A. Miles gave out a statement to-night, after denying several published interviews attributed to him. He prefaced his statement by saying:

"I have been most freely quoted without authority from me or without any utterance on my part. It has been a source of great annoyance to me."

His statement is as follows: "On the 26th of last September I issued an order to regimental commanders to report to me concerning the beef which had been issued to their men. At the time I went before the War Investigating Commission I had only received reports from fourteen of the commanders. Now I have thirty reports. They all tell the same story."

"The evidence proves the truth of the statements I have made. In addition to the report of the regimental commanders, I have a great mass of evidence consisting of communications, affidavits, etc., from officers, soldiers and civilians. Every part of the country has contributed to the mass of correspondence which I have received in reference to the beef served to our soldiers and the evidence is all corroborative of what I have said. The great publicity, which the press has given to the matter has brought all the correspondence of which I speak upon me."

"I have overwhelming evidence that the embalmed beef was treated with chemicals in order to preserve it. I have affidavits from men who saw the beef undergoing the treatment or embalming process."

"Now, as to the canned roast beef, that was different from embalmed beef. The canned roast beef was the beef after the extract had been boiled out of it. You have seen the advertisements 'beef extract'; one pound contains the substance of from four to five pounds of prime beef. Well, this is the beef after the extract has been taken from it. They put this beef pulp up in cans and label it 'Canned Roast Beef.' The soldiers report that the canned beef was nauseating. If swallowed it cannot be kept on the stomach."

The Favorite Cruiser Philadelphia Once More a Visitor.

The United States cruiser Philadelphia anchored in naval row at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, eleven days from San Diego. As soon as loaded she will continue her voyage to Apia. Her slow passage is accounted for by the big cruiser's bottom being very foul from long absence from dry dock. The officers on board the Philadelphia are as follows:

Rear Admiral Kautz, commander in chief; Lieutenant W. G. Miller, flag lieutenant; Ensign D. T. Sellers, flag secretary; Capt. Edwin White, commanding; Lieutenant Commander T. H. Stevens, executive officer; Lieutenant P. V. Landsdale, navigator; Lieutenants G. W. Brown, H. A. Field, F. H. Brown, Ensign J. R. Monaghan, Naval Cadets J. P. Babcock, D. C. Hanrahan, G. C. IS A NEW FACTOR

Episcopal Church Organization to Incorporate.

TO ASSIST ALL GOOD EFFORT

Endorsed by Two Clergymen—Will Do Some Missionary Work. Statement of Objects.

Members of the Episcopal church in Hawaii have, during the past month, completed the organization of an association which is intended to throw that church into line with other denominations in furthering religious work amongst all the nationalities that are fast populating the islands; to instill a new life into the church here; to do away with the mistakes of the past and prepare for the future pertaining to the Christian churches.

This organization, which is styled the "Church Defense and Extension Association," is fully endorsed by Rev. Alexander Mackintosh, for the past thirty years rector of St. Andrew's parish, and Rev. John Osborne, who has so successfully planted a mission at Punahou, St. Clement's, of the Plains, and now has a good sized congregation and is about to erect a parsonage.

The charter, which will be applied for today, reads as follows:

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION OF "THE CHURCH DEFENSE AND EXTENSION ASSOCIATION."

Whereas, it is deemed by the members of the Protestant Episcopal Church on the Hawaiian Islands, to be expedient, in the interests of religion in general, and of the Episcopal Church and her members, in particular, that an Association should be formed, whose object should be to encourage harmony and good-will among church members, to assist and protect such church members, whether individually or collectively, to extend the work of the Church in Hawaii, and with a view of having planted in these islands, a branch of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States of America, therefore

I, J. A. King, Minister of the Interior, with the concurrence and approval of the President, and the Executive Council, by virtue of the power vested in me by Chapter 127, of the civil laws, hereby grant this charter to George Harris, Tom May, James Wakefield, John Effinger, J. W. Podmore, E. W. Jordan, L. de L. Ward, and their associates, who are hereby made and constituted a body politic in law and in fact, by and under the name and style of "The Church Defense and Extension Association."

The aforesaid Association, and their successors, are hereby empowered, in their corporate name, to take and hold real estate and personal property, in value, not to exceed an income of $10,000. They may make and use a common seal, and may change such seal at pleasure.

They may sue and be sued, plead and interplead, appear, prosecute and defend, in any court, to final judgment and execution.

There shall be a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer and an executive committee, of which the president shall be one.

The Association shall be governed as laid down in their Constitution and By-Laws.

This charter shall continue in force for twenty years from this date.

The association will have the financial support of all the wealthy members of the Episcopal church here and will come to the assistance of the poor parishes whenever it is needed. Membership is not limited to local churchmen, but will be invited from the other islands.

Death of Miss Gould.

The death of Miss A. Maud Gould occurred last Saturday, due to consumption. Deceased was quite well known here, having been in 1893 a guest of Minister Stevens. She had returned last fall in hopes of regaining her health. The remains were entrusted to the family of J. A. Carter, her intimate friends. The funeral took place yesterday from the Central Union church and was largely attended.

A SLIGHT CHILL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—A Times cable from London from Henry Norman, says: I should not be a faithful chronicler if I shirked the duty of reporting that a certain falling off in the cordiality in Anglo-American relations prevails in official circles in England. The difference between the feeling now and six months ago may be small in amount, but it is unmistakable. Many cases have combined to produce this. The application of the navigation laws to Cuba, Porto Rico and Hawaii—a deliberate blow to British shipping—was much commented upon here.

In the last two places British trade is now virtually destroyed.

In inside circles it is now known that no negotiations toward a settlement of this matter have been inaugurated, and worse still is the fact that virtually no progress whatever has been made in the American-Canadian Commission, owing to the American refusal to give way at any point.

Worst of all, however, is the ceaselessly repeated belief in America that only for her own ends has England encouraged America to retain the Philippines. This charge rankles here and may yet affect the Government's action.

YOUNGEST ENGINEER.

According to the New York World, the youngest and smallest railroad engineer in the world is Hugh Gibson Richards of Laramie, Wyo., who is only three years old, but who knows the name and use of every part of a locomotive in sight, and can run an engine as well as the most experienced engineer. He accompanies the regular engineer on locomotive No. 1607 of the Union Pacific road on almost every run he makes. Being a child he is not, of course, given charge of the engine, but his ability to run it is acknowledged all the same. Young Hugh can also name every part of a battle-ship and his five-year-old sister recites whole pages of poetry.

Land Company.

The Honolulu Investment Company is the name of a new corporation which made application for articles of incorporation Saturday. The following are the signers of the petition: Henry Smith, T. F. Lansing, C. B. Gray, George D. Gear, John D. Holt, Lewis S. Gear, N. Emmet May, Fred A. Jacobs, A. V. Gear.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help; the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cold and cough left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. TIMELY TOPICS

February 4th, 1899.

In the opinion of expert cowboys and ranchmen and their idea in this instance is regarded as proof positive, and accepted by all who ride the horse, whether it be for pleasure or on duty, the

MEXICAN

is as near perfect in construction and general appearance as it is possible to make a saddle. A great many features of the Mexican Saddle resemble the old Hawaiian Saddle, made by the natives years ago and which seem to grow in greater demand as they become scarce. The tree of this saddle is identical; if possible the Mexican is an improvement in that it is beautifully stamped and decorated, has complete box stirrups and is well finished.

The saddles range in price from $25 to $40.

Drink

PURE

WATER.

If the advice given in those three words is heeded, good health will follow. City water is not good for many reasons, principally, because it is contaminated with vegetable and putrid matter of all descriptions. A simple analysis shows this to be a fact.

EXERCISE

Our doctors are busy treating patients who are suffering from complaints, more especially malarial disorders, which will be materially benefited if they drink a water that is pure and possesses curative features, as does Bartlett Spring Water.

DUE

Ask your family physician about the water, and if he is honest he will endorse its use.

All who have drank the water speak in the highest of terms for it.

This climate demands the use of such a water and you cannot afford to be without it.

VIGILANCE.

We will serve free of charge a glass of this wonderful natural Spring water at our Soda Counter to all who care to come and test its virtues.

Deliver the water to your home in case lots at $6.50 for 50 pints, $9.50 for 50 quarts.

HE IS A TRAVELER

How Col. Macfarlane Has Noted the Currents.

OVER 100 TRIPS ABROAD

Some Star Journeys—Three Hours in San Francisco Beating Mail From London.

It is not quite the right thing to intimate that Col. Geo. Macfarlane has entered the lists as a weather prophet. The fact is that having graduated as a student of currency, he has become an investigator of currents—both wind and wave. Even this is quite secondary to the Colonel's note as a traveler. His observation of currents has been incidental in his traveling. Of the pranks of the air and ocean, Col. Macfarlane has noticed during the past year conditions quite abnormal. For instance, in leaving Honolulu for twelve months or more, the customary trades have not been picked up. In their stead, the ships have met western winds and have even fetched off San Francisco bay with them. The variables have been missed almost wholly. This disjointed or unusual behavior of the winds has been noticed by many ship captains. They made various conjectures. Col. Macfarlane has settled down to the theory that a great storm is brewing.

It was when he was about 19 that Col. Macfarlane, who is a young man, began to get a reputation in his birthplace here of traveling a good deal. He has made more than 100 round trips—San Francisco-Honolulu. He has made perhaps a score of trips to London. Many of these voyages were made in the interest of the Government, for the Colonel was one of the right hand men of King Kalakaua and was frequently entrusted with delicate and important missions abroad. Other voyages have been in the interest of syndicates both here and at San Francisco. The business was mostly financial, for the Colonel is a successful specialist in this field, having the acquaintance and confidence of great men at the money centers. So much has this citizen traveled that a palace car or a steamer cabin is just like his own freehold.

In 1898 Col. Macfarlane made eight trips to the coast and back. Of the fifty-two weeks of the year, he was on the sea nearly sixteen. On one occasion, several years back, he made the San Francisco round trip under thirteen days. The visit was for the purpose of consulting a prominent man up there and sending a cablegram to London. The Colonel sent his luggage from the incoming to the outgoing steamer, hurried up town, saw his man, filed the message, returned to the dock at which he arrived and in three hours was on his way to Honolulu. He considers this one of his three greatest achievements in travel.

On one occasion the Colonel arrived here from London ahead of the mail. This statement can be made good and explained. The mail was dispatched from Liverpool. The Colonel followed the next day on the Lusitania from Southampton. He was in New York twenty-four hours ahead of the mail and brought to Honolulu letters a day later than those in the pouches. This voyage was about fifteen days from San Francisco.

The third notable flight was almost a record breaker from San Francisco to London and return. The whole fortune of one of the big men of San Francisco was involved in the transaction to which this trip was incidental and the Colonel saved the day for his friend and client.

Col. Macfarlane was on the Atlantic in the Servia, Capt. Cook, when the lowest barometer ever known was recorded. The voyage across the Atlantic this time was thirteen days and the storm was one of the severest ever known.

The Colonel has been spared disaster in all these journeys and is ever ready for a trip. One rush run was made with Mrs. Macfarlane and the child of the house when the baby was a very young infant.

The Anglo-Hawaiian traveler is check-a-block with anecdotes. Some of the most amusing concern the placing of a heavy block of bonds in London. The Colonel sat in the office of the agents there as applications were placed. Thousands upon thousands of pounds sterling were invested simply because the brokers were known. Several of the subscribers asked where the islands were. One gentleman who signed for 50,000 pounds remarked that the group looked small on the map, but perhaps was important. Another had the country revealed to him as the place where Capt. Cook was killed. Col. Macfarlane tells these stories with correct and extremely neat embellishment.

New Fertilizer Company.

The Hawaiian Fertilizer Company of Iwilei, of which Professor Crawley is manager and A. F. Cooke city representative, is adding a very large building to its plant near town. This is a two-story structure, 80x100, with galvanized iron as the chief material. It will have a cement floor. A considerable amount of new modern mixing machinery has been ordered from the States by the company. Much raw material is now coming to the port for the Hawaiian Fertilizer Company.

To Kill Deer.

The American Sugar Company is determined to exterminate the deer ranging over Molokai. Alfred W. Carter, who is now in the States will secure the services of two experienced hunters, and they will have nothing else to do but kill off these animals. It is understood that the men will be paid $15 each a month and in addition will be given all the rifles. These rifles cannot, be now selling for $1 apiece.

Brother of Nomad Captain.

Capt. William I. McAlister, of the schooner Endeavor, which came from Port Townsend yesterday, was terribly shocked to learn upon his arrival here of the finding of the schooner Nomad, which was captained by his brother. He is now satisfied that his brother, together with his three grown sons and daughter, met a watery grave. The widow is now residing in Seattle. She still had hopes of the Nomad's safety when Capt. McAlister left the Sound.

Shot in Cuba.

Brigadier General Egbert was shot twice in the Cuban campaign. One bullet pierced his left lung. Among the wounded officers of the Twenty-second Infantry, now in the city, are Capt. Jones, shot in the leg; Lieutenant Godfrey, shot in the head, and Lieutenant Will Wassel, shot through the cheek and shoulder.

AN ESCAPE MADE

How a Notorious Chinese Woman Left Frisco.

Shipped Out as Freight—Soon Taken From a Box—Enjoyed a Drive in Honolulu.

During the stay of the S. S. Rio de Janeiro in Honolulu on Thursday and Friday, a very interesting story was secured from one of the officers of that ship.

The escape and disappearance of Fong Suey Wan, a Chinese kidnapper, in San Francisco, last October, was the source of much worry and trouble to the Chinese Bureau, in whose custody the woman was committed. It appears that Fong Suey Wan is now living in her native land. She was not booked as a passenger on the Pacific Mail steamer when she left San Francisco, but was shipped as freight instead. She was snugly packed in a wooden box and was billed as "one case of merchandise—Handle with care," and knowing ones on the steamer handled the case with care, according to the directions printed on its front.

Nor did the woman make the entire passage to her native land nailed up in a box. The Rio had no sooner crossed the bar and was safely outside the jurisdiction of the Federal Court authorities when, by the judicious use of gold, one of her friends succeeded in securing permission to unbox the human freight. When the Rio steamed into Honolulu, Fong Suey Wan was among the first of the passengers to land. The officers say that she visited the Pall and saw nearly all the points of interest about the city.

The woman was arrested in San Francisco last summer. It was discovered that she was a notorious character. A number of slave girls identified her as the woman who brought them into the States. She was being held by the Chinese Bureau to await a hearing when she made good her escape.

DISAPPOINTED.

Minneapolis Man Who Wanted a Bank Charter.

William E. Steele, of William E. Steele & Co., bankers and brokers of Minneapolis, writes to a friend in Honolulu by the Rio de Janeiro, concerning the First National Bank Charter. He says: "I find that Perry S. Heath and his associates have had a 'clinch' on the charter since 1893. I cannot at present state if I shall insist further on being treated fairly by the Department, but may take the matter up in the near future."

Mr. Steele, who is a brother of Mrs. Captain Wiltze, applied for the charter of the First National Bank of Hawaii, immediately after annexation. His application was refused with the explanation that Heath's application held prior claim.

Laborers Distributed.

The America-Marine brought 525 Japanese contract laborers to the city. An allotment of these laborers was made as follows: Paauhau, 41; Honolulu Sugar Company, 57; Hakalau, 82; Hutchinson, 30; Ookala, 35; Hilo Sugar Company, 94; Ewa, 61; Hawaiian Sugar Company, 57; and Pioneer Mill Company, 68.

HOW TO PREVENT PNEUMONIA.

In a recent letter from Washington, D. C., to an old friend, Major G. A. Studer, for twenty years United States Consul at Singapore, says: "While at Des Moines I became acquainted with a liniment known as Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I found excellent against rheumatism as well as against soreness of the throat and chest (giving me much easier breathing.) I had a touch of pneumonia early this week, and two applications freely applied to the throat and chest relieved me of it at once. I would not be without it for anything." A BLACK BERRY

Prof. Koebel's Hunt for a New Coffee Pest.

IS NO GREAT DANGER

Lack of Shade—Favorable Work-Affairs in Oiaa and Kona.

Professor Koebel, the Government entomologist, has returned from Hawaii, where he has been giving close attention to one of two coffee diseases. He secured much valuable information, which has led him to believe that there is not much cause for alarm.

The coffee planters of Oiaa and Puna have been panic-stricken by the appearance of the black berry. The disease is in the nature of a small black spot which appears on the leaf and the berry. It dries up and leaves a little dark hole. Professor Koebel asserts that the disease is not injurious to the berry or the tree itself. Its damage is in forming on the leaf and causing it to drop off. This, of course, decreases the yield of the tree.

"The trouble is due to climatic conditions," said Professor Koebel last evening. "Under certain conditions it might become troublesome, but I do not look for this. The planters will be obliged to spray the leaves with fungicides, probably Bordeaux mixture. This will undoubtedly be beneficial, but the number and time of application will have to be determined by experiments."

Some time ago I forwarded some of these diseased coffee leaves to B. T. Galloway, chief of United States Division of Vegetable Physiology and Pathology, at Washington. I am in receipt of a reply from Mr. Galloway in which he states that the leaves show a fungus which has been described under the name of "Cercospora Coffeicola." The chief says that the fungus is closely related to one which occurs on celery in the United States and causes considerable injury to the leaves. Other fungi of the same group occur on the cherry and the almond and cause the leaves to drop off, he says.

"In my travels over Hawaii, I very seldom found the black berry where the trees were protected by shade."

"Now in regard to the disease known as a Fusarium fungi, reported by A. M. Wilson, of Waialae, Hilo. I can report that the planters are taking proper precautions to check it. The preventive measures taken include the careful gathering and destruction of as much of the diseased material as possible, together with the best cultivation under existing conditions."

Professor Koebel speaks very hopefully of coffee. The two diseases mentioned are but very slight blights and can be easily taken care of. Oiaa district, he found to be in a very satisfactory condition. There is every promise of a great coffee production in the near future. The elevation of a large proportion of the district makes the age of bearing much later than on the lowlands. The Professor still believes there is too much rain there, but finds the moisture decreasing as the country is opened up. The Kona district is in fine condition, there being little or no blight there. The coming crop will be the largest ever gathered.

The planting of sugar cane is in progress about Kailua. Both cane and coffee are growing to an advantage as high as 3,500 feet in the Kona districts.

Another Victim Cured.

What a Honolulu Lady Has to Say of Doan's Backache and Kidney Pills.

Many people are skeptical about taking so-called patent medicines, but a few testimonials as given below ought to convince the most skeptical that all remedies are not without merit.

Home testimonials certainly must be accepted as being first class and positive proof of the curative features of a remedy. Watch this space for a series of testimonials of people well and favorably known.

Mrs. Grace Dodd, 524 Young street, says: "I was troubled with enlargement of the liver; suffered severe pains in my right side and lame back for two years. After consulting a local physician and taking medicines of all kinds and failing to get relief I purchased a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and soon was relieved of the severe pains, could enjoy a good sleep and am satisfied the Pills cured me."

Doan's Kidney and Backache Pills can be obtained at the Hollister Drug Co., Ltd., Fort Street, at 50c a box.
